

SHORT BIO:

Lillee Jean Trueman is an American actress, filmmaker, writer, and director. Lillee Jean is best known for her award-winning celebrity talk show, Lillee Jean TALKS! Live, which features iconic Hollywood stars such as Donny Most, Shelley Wade, Neil D'Monte, Staci Layne Wilson, Charlie "Chick" Allan, John Callas, and Aaron Kai. A celebrated Gen Z voice in film and television, Trueman is praised for her indie credits, which include the award-winning sci-fi comedy The Trapper Trap: The Rise of Princess Glamourite, and her globally screened micro-short film The Mission is Complete, Angelique.

As a strong directorial voice, the star headed the acclaimed documentary film Project Bullyish, which tackles the vital issue of criminal online harassment. The gritty documentary film, continuing its well-received viral message in France, has further screened globally, with a premiere at the KIFF Film Festival in California.

With a foundation in the Meisner Technique and British dialects from New York City's prestigious T. Schreiber Studio, Lillee Jean's performances are a testament to her professional training and strong educational background in film and television. Trueman's work includes a role on HBO's The Gilded Age, and in 2024, a recurring guest-star position on The FNL Network Talkshow. Looking ahead, Lillee Jean is slated to direct the highly anticipated book-to-TV series, Write to Kill, set to film in iconic locations across London and New York.

She is known for her trademark big blue/green eyes and red hair, which define her striking appearance. Raised and born in New York City, her diverse heritage spans Russia, Ukraine, France, England, and Germany. She has a rich family history rooted in the world of entertainment, with her manager, Laura Rene Marks-Trueman, being a prop runner/buyer/researcher on Mad Men, the Men in Black trilogy, Public Enemies, Gotham, and The Alienist, and her great uncle-in-law, William Wadsworth "Bill" Zielor prominently managing the J. P. Harris Downtown Theatre, Century Theatre, and having been a Universal Artists Executive.
